Particular terms and conditions

Online sales enable the customer to purchase the pass (medium and ticket) or recharge a Keycard with a new particular ticket.

Tickets purchased online must be issued on Keycard media. Customers who do not have a Keycard must therefore pay the price thereof.

A person who has a Keycard may recharge it using the number appearing on the back of the card (xx-xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx-x). No hyphen or space shall be inserted when registering the Keycard.

A person who has a Swiss Pass may recharge it using the number appearing on the back of the page.

It is the customer's responsibility to correctly fill in the information required for issuance or recharge of the ticket.

Payment

Secure payment is made by credit card or Post Finance. Payments in cash are not accepted for online purchases.

Payment is made in a secure environment. The bank data transmitted are protected. This protection complies with the legal provisions applicable in Switzerland.

A validated order takes effect only when the bank payment centre involved has given its agreement. In the event of rejection by said centre, the order will automatically be cancelled and the customer is advised of the rejection of the transaction.

All purchases are final and cannot be cancelled, refunded or transferred to another person, unless otherwise specified.

As soon as you make a purchase, your credit card is debited the amount posted, whether or not you use the purchased ticket (s).

The pass cannot be changed after it has been purchased.

Order confirmation

After the payment is made and accepted, a confirmation email summarizing the entire order (confirmation number and recharged Keycard (s)) is sent to the customer at the email address used to place the order (paper printout or smartphone preview). It is necessary to keep this confirmation in case of a check in the ski area.

If the Keycard or Swiss Pass is recharged online, the customer may go directly to one of the Skidata terminals in the ski area.

If the customer purchased his/her Keycard online, he/she must pick it up at the ticket office at the station for boarding the Pas de Maimbré cable car.

Validation of the pass

Liability and guarantees

Télé Anzère SA is not liable for any inconvenience or damage inherent to use of the internet (interruption of service, computer virus, etc.). The customer states that he /she is aware of the internet's characteristics and limits, particularly its technical performance and the response times within which to review, question or transfer the data, and the risks related to the security of communications.

If a Keycard or Swiss Pass is charged, Télé Anzère SA is not liable for any inconvenience or damage to these media that might result from improper functioning of the pass.

11. Checks on tickets

The pass must be presented whenever a verifying check is imposed.

Access by Keycard does not in any way exempt users from having to present their tickets at any time at the request of employees in charge of verification.

If the holder refuses to present the pass during a check, Télé Anzère SA is entitled to deny access to the ski area.

12. Frauds and infractions

All tickets are personal, non-transferable and non-refundable.

In the event of fraud (e.g. repurchase of a third party's ticket), the customer who has used a ticket that is not his/her own will be required to pay the cost of a verification check, in an amount determined by Télé Anzère SA at its discretion, but of at least CHF 200. In the event that the holder claims his ticket was stolen, or was borrowed against his will, Télé Anzère SA reserves the right to make replacement of the pass conditional on the filing of a criminal complaint. If Télé Anzère SA so requests, a user who alleges that his/her pass has been stolen/ used against his/her will must provide a copy of such a complaint for the issuance of a new ticket.

13. Check by photo

To confound fraudsters, a photo of each smart card user is taken automatically daily, at each first pass through the control gate, and at random times later in the day. The comparison of photos enables the operator to detect frauds in the event of ticket transfers, a practice that is strictly prohibited by our general terms and conditions. Only our security service has access to our photo database during the pass-through checks, to enable identification of fraudsters.

Télé Anzère SA also has a database that records all visits to the facilities. These data can be used only for a search following a disappearance in the ski area. Télé Anzère SA prohibits any other use of collected data, and keeps a protocol of all its interventions on these databases.

14. Rescue service

In the event of an accident in the ski area and the need to call the rescue service, an amount set by various insurance agreements is billed to the injured customer.
